

Why attend the 2025 Remsoft North American User Group Conference, May 28 – 29, in Fredericton, New Brunswick?

This conference will provide you with a fun, interactive setting to explore practical topics and actions to further your work, have your team's questions answered in-person, and connect with peers. At Remsoft's North American User Group Conference, you will:

- Hear directly how Remsoft is identifying planning gaps and opportunities for further integration of their intelligent planning solutions and technology.
- Discover, learn, and experience the vision and direction that Remsoft is going with their solutions and cloud platforms.
- Leverage technical tips and tricks to run our models more efficiently from senior Remsoft analysts.
- Gain knowledge and industry perspective on different planning challenges and how Remsoft's analytical technology and in-field experts are solving them.
